The project, initiated in early 2024, saw national construction management company Bernards collaborate with memorial staff to restore the iconic cross and its deteriorated base area. While Bernards took on the tasks of power washing and repainting the cross, Stonhard focused on fortifying the foundation below.

With the meticulous care and attention that Stonhard is renowned for, installation crews applied a polyurea-polyurethane hybrid immersion-grade lining system with an aspartic polyurethane coating. This flexible, waterproof membrane is designed for high durability, ensuring the memorial withstands environmental conditions.

From April 1 to May 16, the collective efforts of Stonhard and other dedicated contributors transformed the memorial, breathing new life into its storied history. The project was more than just a task; it was a labor of love and gratitude, with all involved offering their time and expertise to honor our nation's heroes.

The Mount Soledad Veterans Memorial stands tall today as a symbol of freedom and remembrance, a testament to the collective spirit of gratitude and reverence. Thanks to the dedication and hard work of everyone involved, this landmark will continue to inspire and uplift generations to come.
